Do I need to download RingCentral?

Yes, if this is your first time using RingCentral, you will need to install the platform on your desktop or your phone prior to your upcoming appointment.

See instructions on page 1.

I clicked the link, but my consultation won't open, now what?

Have you downloaded the RingCentral Meetings app?

All virtual consultations require this app to function. If you need to download the app, visit ringcentr.al/3hRWDb7.

I have the app, but I still can't get into the consultation. Open the RingCentral Meetings app and enter your meeting ID. The meeting ID is the last 9 numeric digits in the meeting URL your clinical team provided.

I am in the consultation, but my doctor isn't.

You are in the right place! As with many medical practices, there can be times when your doctor is running late due to a previous patient appointment. Stay where you are, and your meeting will begin when your doctor arrives.

I tried to log in, but I get a message saying "The host has another meeting in progress."

This oftentimes happens because your doctor is still in another virtual consultation. Once they are finished with that appointment, and join yours, you will get pulled into the meeting.

If all else fails, a member of your clinical team will call you with information for a different RingCentral meeting or to hold the meeting by phone.
